From Le Prese drive to Frontale then towards Fumero up to Flescia. Then follow path S518 to Pravadina, from where the trail becomes steeper. You can take a break at the mountain huts of Asola then walk through a forest of larch, alder and rhododendrons until you reach the village of Boero Basso with its very beautiful mountain huts set on a panoramic terrace overlooking the Alta Valtellina. A final effort brings you to Pavagn, where a flat former military road leads to the Val Fin, a wild and rugged valley where in winter avalanches come down from the Corn as far as the Pont del Diavol. The path then passes through a wellpreserved forest of larch and Swiss pines to the mountain huts of Profa Alta in the Valdisotto municipality.

Avalanches in the history of Alta Valtellina The earliest records date back to Greek and Latin authors. People in Valtellina soon learnt to forecast the danger: it is said that many escaped tragedy thanks to their own horses which, sensing the coming snowslide, would stop or break into a gallop for no reason.
