A renewed path that comes alive again, thanks to its huge naturalistic and cultural value. An ancient mule track along the Monte Scale, built in the past to reach the locations for the control over the Stelvio Pass road.

Starting from the way to Boscopiano along the main road to the Stelvio Pass, after the Bagni Vecchi thermal Spas, you continue up to a picnic area. At the crossroads, you follow the road to the left, crossing the river Adda. You begin the ascent, finding a small tunnel, other fortifications' remains and then a panoramic terrace with an impressive view over the Valle del Braulio and over the serpentine Stelvio road. You reach now the highest point (1.700 m). Bypassing the detour towards the Lago delle Scale, you go on descending in direction Premadio, through a dense mountain pine's forest, encountering the rests of another old house block.

A stunning path rich in history, characterised by old military fortifications, with impressive views over the Valle del Braulio and the road of the Stelvio Pass
